Federal Acquisition Regulations (FAR) Overview

October 22 | Noon – 1:00 pm

Presented by:

Mark Dennis, Wisconsin Procurement Institute

Assisting Wisconsin businesses compete in the government marketplace.

WPI is Wisconsin's APEX ACCELERATOR

The APEX Accelerators program, under management of the Department of Defense (DOD) Office of Small Business Programs (OSBP), plays a critical role in the Department's efforts to identify and engage with a wide range of businesses entering and participating in the defense supply-chain. The program provides the education and training that all businesses need to participate to become capable of participating in DOD and other government contracts.

WPI provides services and training to all of Wisconsin's 72 counties

- Individual counseling at our offices, client's facility or virtually
- Small group training – webinars and workshops including Acquisition Hours, Cyber Fridays, Evening FAR sessions, Federal Market Insights and Local Government Sales Opportunities
- Conferences the Governors Marketplace, The Contracting Academy (TCA), WEDCs Small Business Academy, Wisconsin Federal Contractor Forum [DC and in-state], Government Opportunities Business Conference GOBC) with WI military bases, End of Year Federal Contractor Update, Annual DOD Contract Management Update, and more.....

What we will Cover Today

- The Federal Acquisition Regulations (FAR) serve as the principal set of rules governing the federal government's purchasing process. Understanding the FAR is critical for any business looking to succeed in the federal marketplace, as it defines how the government acquires goods and services and sets the standards for contractor performance and compliance. In this session, we will learn:
 - The purpose, structure, and key parts of the FAR
 - How the FAR impacts federal contracts and contractor responsibilities
 - Common FAR clauses and their implications for businesses
 - Practical tips for navigating and applying FAR requirements in proposals and contract performance

This training provides a foundational overview for business owners, managers, and contracting professionals who want to strengthen their understanding of the FAR and improve their ability to compete and perform successfully in federal contracting.

What we will Cover Today

- Why learn about the Federal Acquisition Regulations (FAR)
- What is the FAR
- Where to find the FAR
- How to use the FAR
- The 2025 Revolutionary FAR Overhaul

WHY LEARN ABOUT THE FAR

Why do we need to know the FAR?

Companies that are planning to do business with the United States Federal Government, providing goods or services via bidding and acceptance of contracts, should know how the Federal Government agencies are able to acquire their requirements.

- Acquisitions are required to follow the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) which are the regulations that implement Federal Statutes, Executive Orders, and Federal Government determinations on how procurements made with public dollars can be performed
- Unlike commercial contacting, the Federal Government has specific requirements to follow based on the use of ‘appropriated’ dollars – tax funds that are designated by Congressional appropriation through the US Federal budgeting process.

Why do we need to know the FAR?

- Understanding the FAR is essential to know to what contractors are agreeing and committing, when they sign a Federal Government contract
- MOST FAR Clauses are non-negotiable. However, having an understanding of FAR clauses, what they are, and when they should be applied, can assist in preparing for negotiations with the Federal Government
- Understanding the FAR clauses can provide a better understanding both of contractor responsibilities as well as contractor rights when working on federally funded procurement programs
- Knowledge is power

Subcontractors need to know the FAR

- Even subcontractors to a prime, need knowledge of the FAR.
- The prime contractors, or subs upstream in the supply chain, are signing contract requirements to only work with subcontractors that will follow specific FAR regulations.
- Some FAR clauses are required to flow down to subcontracts. Know what they are, and if the prime has not yet mentioned them...ASK.

WHAT IS THE FAR?

January 22, 2025

What is the FAR?

- The Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) is issued as Chapter 1 of Title 48, CFR (Code of Federal Regulations)
- The FAR is the primary regulation used by all Federal executive agencies in the acquisition of supplies and services with appropriated funds
- The FAR was established to codify uniform policies for acquisition of supplies and services by Federal executive agencies. Currently using the Fiscal Year 2019 version, which is being modified in 2025.

Updates to the FAR

The FAR is routinely updated to implement new laws and executive orders.

Updates are called Federal Acquisition Circulars (FAC).

Changes are published in the Federal Register, which is available online.

The Revolutionary FAR Overhaul 2025 progress can be found at Acquisition.gov.

Revolutionary FAR Overhaul (RFO)

Restoring Common Sense to Federal Procurement

Under the President's Executive Order, Restoring Common Sense to Federal Procurement, the Federal government is undertaking the first-ever comprehensive overhaul of the FAR.

Led by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy (OFPP) and the Federal Acquisition Regulatory Council (FAR Council), this initiative will return the FAR to its statutory roots, rewrite it in plain language, and remove most non-statutory rules. In addition, non-regulatory buying guides will provide practical strategies grounded in common sense while remaining outside the FAR.

The goal is clear: faster acquisitions, greater competition, and better results.

Final Call for Informal RFO Feedback.

FAR Agency Supplements

- There are many different Federal Agencies – All of them must follow the regulations laid out in the FAR
- It is recognized however, that Agencies have different missions and therefore, are allowed to issue agency specific Supplemental Regulations.
 - FAR provides that Supplemental regulations shall be limited to those necessary to implement FAR policy and procedure within an agency or satisfy specific agency needs, but cannot contradict the FAR.
 - Example: “DFARS” = Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement

FAR Organization

- FAR is organized in 8 Subchapters, 53 Parts plus a Matrix of application for regulations
- The Subchapters are organized as follow:
 - Subchapter A – General: Includes Parts 1 – 4
 - Subchapter B – Competition and Acquisition Planning: Includes Parts 5 – 12
 - Subchapter C – Contracting Methods and Contracting Types: Includes Parts 13-18
 - Subchapter D – Socioeconomic Programs: Includes Parts 19 – 26
 - Subchapter E – General Contracting Requirements: Includes Parts 27 – 33
 - Subchapter F – Special Categories of Contracting: Includes Parts 34-41
 - Subchapter G – Contract Management: Includes Parts 42 – 51
 - Subchapter H – Clauses and Forms: Includes Parts 52 - 53

FAR Organization

- Parts 1-51 are the Regulations
 - Often, these are instructions and requirements agencies are required to follow and maintain compliance with and how they may make acquisitions. Contractors need to understand them to know what the Government must do.
- Part 52 is the Solicitation Provisions and Contract Clauses
- Part 53 contains Standard Forms that are called out in the FAR and instructions for their use
- Matrix – this provides guidance to Contracting Officers when creating solicitations & contracts as to what is required based on the type of acquisition and the type of contract being utilized.
- Appendix – in 2020, the FAR was officially modified to remove the Cost Accounting Standards documentation as an official Appendix to the FAR. CAS is still a requirement, currently is a stand alone set of requirements maintained by a CAS directorate, and can just be referenced by the FAR – not needed as an attached Appendix.

Subchapter A - General

- Part 1. Federal Acquisition Regulations System
- Part 2. Definitions of Words and Terms
- Part 3. Improper Business Practices and Personal Conflicts of Interest

Finding the FAR

- Use caution when using other than the official FAR site
- The FAR is free online – Acquisition.gov
- Make sure any site you are using is current through the most recent issued FAC.
- Paperback copies of the FAR are published semi-annually (Wolters Kluwer)
$344.00

- PSC Manual (Product and Service Code)

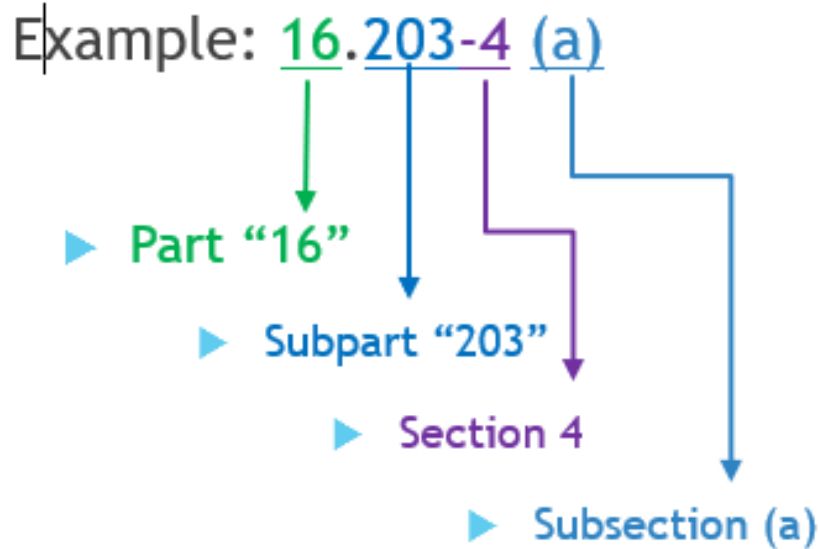

HOW TO USE THE FAR

How to use the FAR?

- You do not need to read the entire FAR
- Read the sections that apply to you as outlined in the solicitation/contract
- Start with the clauses included in your SAM registration!
- Use the Table of Contents or on-line search features to locate what you are looking for
- FAR parts are “Reserved” when the regulations change and that portion is no longer applicable

Interpreting the FAR Numbering

- Arrangement of FAR references

- FAR from Parts 1 – 51 are generally regulations required of the Federal agencies. They are passed to Contractors as requirements via contract clauses (FAR Part 52), and arranged by the FAR Part that they relate to
- FAR 52.216-2, FAR 52.216-3 and FAR 52.216-4 are possible clauses from the FAR shown in the above example

How to use the FAR?

- Each FAR clause or provision starts with 52.2__-____, followed by the name, and effective date. Such as 52.219-6 Notice of Total Small Business Set-Aside (Nov 2020)
- The first ____ references the FAR Part being utilized (Part 19)
- This can be used to quickly go to the Part of the FAR covered by the clause or provision
- The second ____ numbers each provision/clause within the Part (dash-6)

How to use the FAR?

- Provisions/clauses can be in full text or referenced. “Clauses / provisions included by reference” have same legal impact as full text ones.
- (FAR Matrix indicates if provision/clause can be referenced. Final decision is with the Contracting Officer.)
- Each provision/clause provides where in the FAR it is prescribed to use the provision/clause. The FAR states when the contracting officer shall use each provision/clause.
- Electronic version of the FAR often contains hyperlinks to go between the provision/clause and when to use it.

How to use the FAR?

52.214-22 Evaluation of Bids for Multiple Awards.

As prescribed in 14.201-6(q), insert the following provision:

Evaluation of Bids for Multiple Awards (Mar 1990)

In addition to other factors, bids will be evaluated on the basis of advantages and disadvantages to the Government that might result from making more than one award (multiple awards). It is assumed, for the purpose of evaluating bids, that $500 would be the administrative cost to the Government for issuing and administering each contract awarded under this solicitation, and individual awards will be for the items or combinations of items that result in the lowest aggregate cost to the Government, including the assumed administrative costs.

(End of provision)

Agency Supplements

- Agency Acquisition Regulations implement or supplement the FAR.
- Each Agency Supplement adds an additional number to the front of the reference number. There are 32 Agency Supplements listed in Acquisition.gov. Agency Supplements follow the FAR basic format.

DFAR – 252.219-7003 Defense
Federal Acquisition Regulations

GSAM – 552.219-70 General
Services Acquisition Regulations

VAAR– 852.219-70 Department of Veterans Affairs Acquisition
Regulations

Agency Supplements

- Agency regulations follow the structure and numbering system of the original FAR when supplementing the FAR
 - FAR 52.204-9 Personal Identity Verification of Contractor Personnel (Jan 2011)
 - VAAR 852.204-70 Personal Identity Verification of Contractor Personnel (May 2020)
- Agency regulations add additional parts when adding information not found in the FAR
- VAAR 852.273-73 Evaluation – Health-Care Resources (Nov 2021)

Searching the FAR

- Search the FAR and/or Agency Supplements for specific information or topics

What is the most important part of the FAR?

- All of it
- The most important part to you is the part that currently applies to the solicitation or contract you are looking at
- Small Businesses should review and understand the Small Business Programs located in Part 19
- Federal Supply Schedule Holders (GSA or VA) should review and understand how the Government uses Federal Supply Schedules located in Part 8.4

Some Useful Parts of the FAR

- Part 2 – Definitions
- Part 22 – Labor Laws
- Part 28 – Bonds and Insurance
- Part 29 – Taxes
- Part 33 – Protests
- Part 36 – Construction and Architect-Engineer Contracts
- Part 44 – Subcontracting Policies and Procedures
- Part 49 - Terminations

Provision vs Clause

Solicitation provisions are distinguished from contract clauses

- Provision: A written term or condition used only in solicitations and applying only before contract award
- Clause: Terms and conditions in the final contract
- Solicitations include both Contract Clauses and Provisions
- At time of award most contracting officers remove the provision section of the solicitation
- Final Contract includes the clauses but no provisions

“Fill in the Blanks”

- Some clauses/provisions have blanks to fill in
- Blanks should be filled in by the Contracting Officer or the offeror/bidder depending on the clause/provision
- Language within clause/provision may indicate who should complete the fill in either the Contracting Officer or the offeror/bidder
- Make sure all these are reviewed and completed during the procurement process to ensure a compliant contract

Offeror “Fill in the Blank”

52.215-6 Place of Performance (Oct 1997)

- (a) The offeror or respondent, in the performance of any contract resulting from this solicitation, intends, does not intend [check applicable block] to use one or more plants or facilities located at a different address from the address of the offeror or respondent as indicated in this proposal or response to request for information.
- (b) If the offeror or respondent checks “intends” in paragraph (a) of this provision, it shall insert in the following spaces the required information:

Place of Performance
Owner and Operator

Name and Address of

(End of provision)

Contracting Officer “Fill in the Blank”

52.217-8 Option to Extend Services (Nov 1999)

The Government may require continued performance of any services within the limits and at the rates specified in the contract.

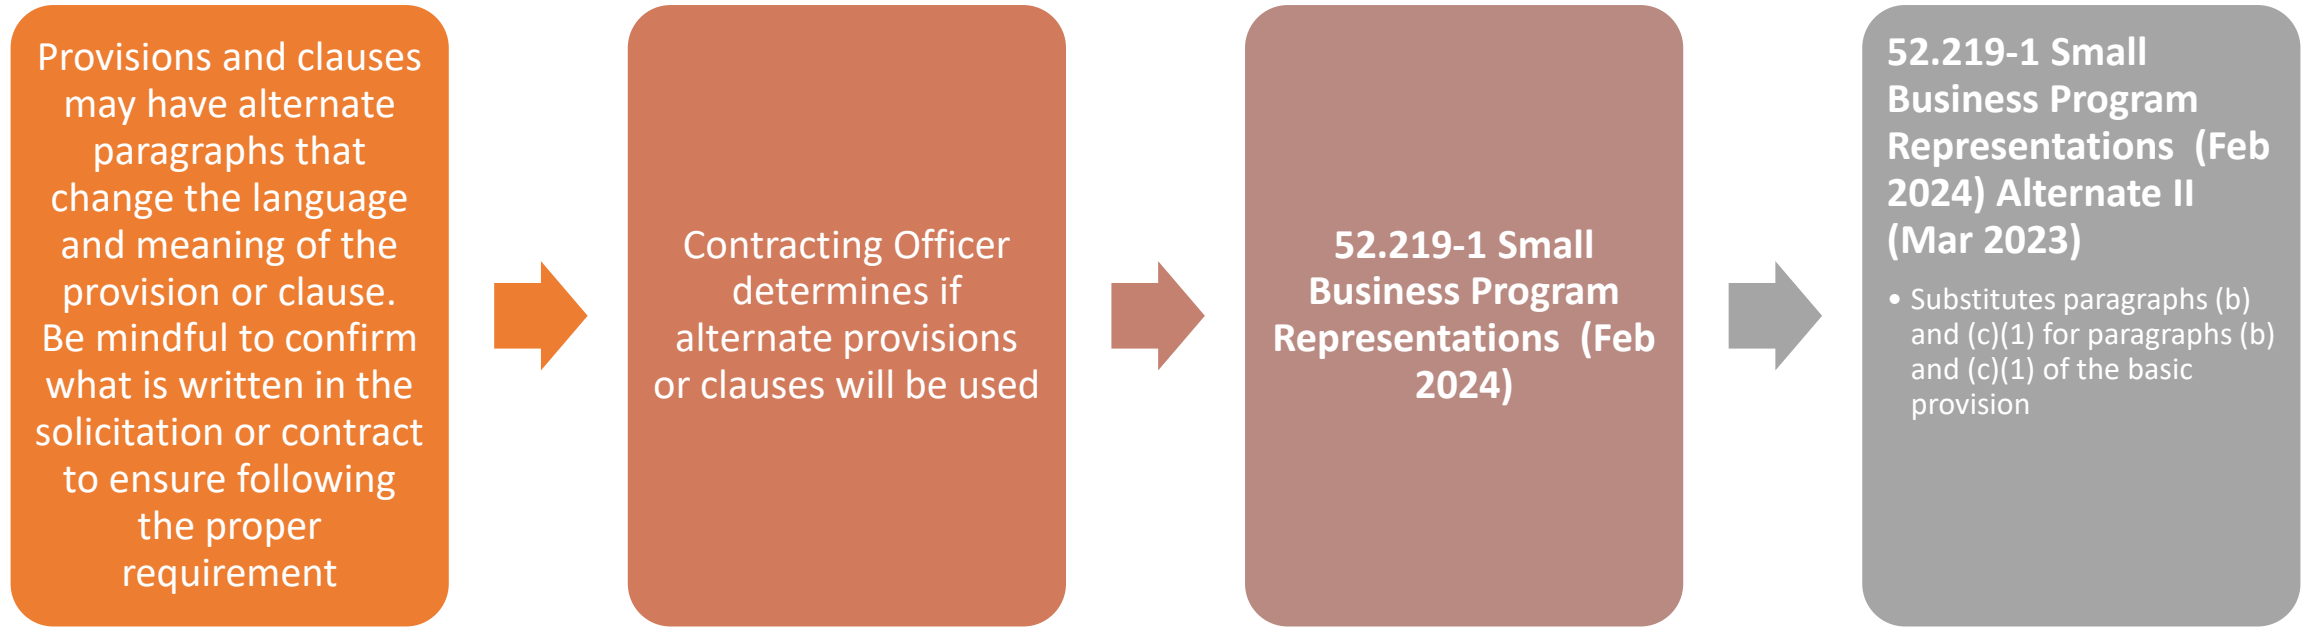

These rates may be adjusted only as a result of revisions to prevailing labor rates provided by the Secretary of Labor.

The option provision may be exercised more than once, but the total extension of performance hereunder shall not exceed 6 months.

The Contracting Officer may exercise the option by written notice to the Contractor within _____ [insert the period of time within which the Contracting Officer may exercise the option].

(End of clause)

Alternates

Clause Dates

- Dates on clauses are very important
 - Example: 52.203-3 Gratuities (Apr 1984)
- Generally, the clause revision in effect at date of Contract Award is the applicable clause. When dealing with subcontracts, the Prime must generally flow down the clause revision in effect at date of the Prime Contract, not the award of the subcontract
- If a significant change to a FAR Clause occurs during a solicitation negotiation award process, it is good idea to be in contact with the contracting officer to ensure both parties are the same page
- If a clause changes significantly and the impact is such that the new clause must be incorporated into an existing awarded contract, it falls under the Changes clause, and the contractor has the right to work with the Government for an equitable adjustment

Is the FAR just “Boiler Plate” Language?

- There are over 650 various provisions/clauses in the FAR
- Contracting Officers select which ones are applicable to the type of contract they are writing
- Which ones they select can impact your contract and the cost to you to provide the supplies and services under the contract
- The FAR is changing, and contractors have to keep up.
- Scrutinize your contract Modifications and look for these changes.
- Scrutinize your solicitation Amendments and look for these changes.

Language of the FAR

Amendment –
Refers to a change to a solicitation before a contract award

Modification –
Refers to a change made to an awarded contract

Shall verses other wording: In legal terms, “Shall” indicates an imperative requirement, and is normally seen in statements pertaining to the ‘contractor shall’. A breach of contract occurs if the action is not performed.

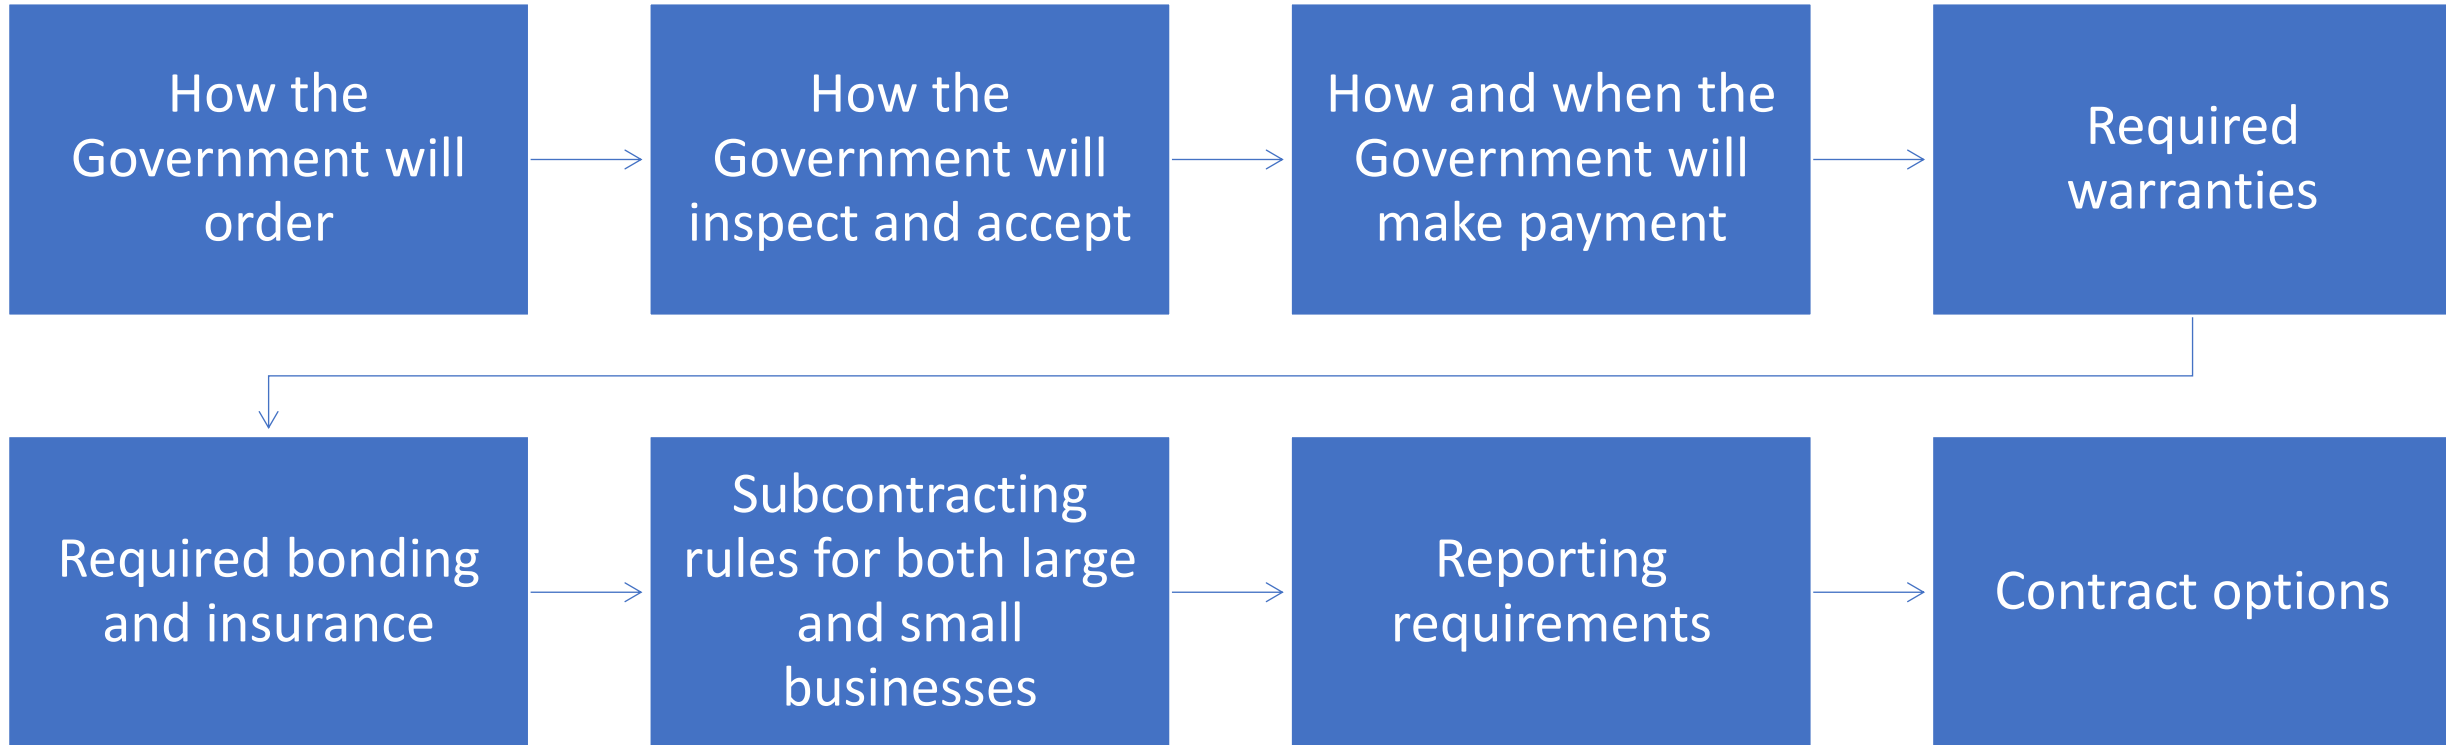

Will – indicates an anticipated future action or result, but is not a 100% surety and generally does not mean a breach of contract occurred if not performed.

May – indicates a discretionary action, and is generally written so that the ‘government may’. It is not a breach of contract if it doesn’t occur.

FAR Includes

How does the FAR Become Applicable to my Business?

- FAR Solicitation Provisions and Clauses need to be reviewed, understood and followed in proposing and contracting with the Government:
 - In Prime (Direct to Federal Government Agency) procurements, the solicitation / contract will have a terms and conditions section that includes the applicable contract clauses
 - Many of these FAR Clauses require the PRIME contractor to 'pass down' (flow down) requirements to vendors lower in the supply chain, AND to require those sub vendors to also pass down the requirements through all levels of the supply chain.

Wrap up

- Not understanding all contract requirements and clauses is not a defense for breaches of contract, so reading and understanding everything, including the FAR clauses is important
- What not to do...
 - Do not ignore the FAR
 - Do not get overly concerned about knowing everything about the entire 1200 pages of the FAR

Wrap up

What to do

- Become familiar with the FAR clauses normal in your environment. Most of them will show up consistently in the same type of work
- Reach out to resources for help
 - WPI
 - Legal Counsel if you feel the need – Use a legal group grounded in federal contracting
- Stay abreast of updates
 - Membership in professional organizations like National Contract Management Association (NCMA) and National Defense Industrial Association (NDIA) can be helpful

REVOLUTIONARY FAR OVERHAUL 2025

January 22, 2025

FAR OVERHAUL

- Under the President's Executive Order, Restoring Common Sense to Federal Procurement, the Federal government is undertaking the first-ever comprehensive overhaul of the FAR.
- Led by the Office of Federal Procurement Policy (OFPP) and the Federal Acquisition Regulatory Council (FAR Council), this initiative will return the FAR to its statutory roots, rewrite it in plain language, and remove most non-statutory rules. In addition, non-regulatory buying guides will provide practical strategies grounded in common sense while remaining outside the FAR.
- The goal is clear: faster acquisitions, greater competition, and better results.
